

Babyville Diapers
Credits: Babyville Boutique

Sew your own cloth diapers

Do you love to sew and love cloth diapers? There's a new line in town called Babyville Boutique. Babyville Boutique is a line of fabrics and notions for cloth diaper sewers. Babyville Boutique fabrics just started selling in Joann Fabrics stores this month!

Now if you love to make your own diapers you can find the fabrics right in your hometown locations! The Babyville Boutique feature a DIY cloth diapers sewing book as well as a second book for sewing various baby items. The boutique carries a line of adorable PUL fabrics (the waterproof exterior for diapers), matching fold over elastics, touch tape, fabric labels, snaps and snap pliers and more!

If you are interested call your local Joann fabrics to see if they are offering a cloth diapering DIY sewing class. Most locations will be opening up a sewing class in Babyville boutique as well.

To see a sample of their cute fabrics and to enter for a chance to win your own, visit Happy Green Babies.

Ads by Google

Fabric

Newborn Baby

Baby Stores

Cloth Diaper

Share

Email

Print

Rachel McFadden, Baltimore Green Parenting Examiner
September 29, 2011 - Like this? Subscribe to get instant updates.